LOOK FOR NO JUMP IN FOOD PRODUCTION

Opinion that the overall food production in Virginia will be less this year than last was expressed by a group of farmers, agricultural workers, and farm supply organization officials who conferred with G. S. Fox, member of a farm organization in Missouri, and C. L. Sheets, of Washington, D. C., representatives of War Production Board's chief, Donald M. Nelson, Friday evening in Richmond, Va.

PROCLAMATION

The Army has announced that it is more and more in need of the services of members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps... that splendid and patriotic group of women in military uniform and under military discipline, freeing men for active combatant service with Uncle Sam's fighting forces at the front.

The President of the United States has, by executive order authorized that the Corps recruit to its full strength of 150,000. This will expand the Woman Army Auxiliary Corps to six times its original size.

Now, therefore, I C. S. McDearmon, mayor of Appomattox, Va., hereby proclaim the month of April as Women's Army Auxiliary Corps Month in Appomattox, and because of the outstanding contribution to the prosecution of the war now being made by the women of the land who are already members of the Corps, and by the great necessity for serving the Corps efficiently by thousands of others, I urge all women of Appomattox, who can qualify themselves for this great service, to offer themselves for service in the Womens Army Auxiliary Corps.

—C. S. McDearmon, Mayor

Town of Appomattox.

Hens Have High Body Heat

Hens have a body temperature of about 106 degrees F. The heat given off by the body of the hen is quickly lost with a few birds in a large house, or in any number of birds in a cold house. But if the house is tight and properly constructed otherwise, and if the house is filled to capacity, the body heat of many times keep it warm enough to make the birds comfortable, increase egg production, and reduce the danger of diseases.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

After that Western thriller at the movies, Ben Ryder says: "You know, the West wasn't all like that. While the gun-play was goin' on, the folks were weeding out undesirable elements... red-eye saloons and gambling joints."

And Ben's right. There's a spirit in America that's always working for a better community. Take that "clean up or close-up" program of the brewing industry, for instance. Its whole purpose is to see that beer is sold only in clean, respectable places.

Everybody benefits from cooperation like that. Even folks who want Prohibition back. Because those beer folks are working for the same thing: a decent, law-abiding community.

From where I sit the way isn't to pass more laws, but to enforce the ones we've got, and rely on America's spirit of tolerance and cooperation.
